Welcome

Welcome to the English Department at Santa Rosa Junior College—and welcome to the department’s customized handbook.

This opening section of the handbook provides essential information about the class you’re currently taking, other English classes you may take later, resources on campus, and protocols and tips—from the College, from faculty, and from other students—to help you have the best academic experience possible. Take some time to browse the handbook’s pages so that you’re familiar with the kinds of information it offers.

We hope that your semester is wonderful, full of learning, new friendships, and discovery. We’re glad you’re here!

The English Department Office

Santa Rosa Campus: Emeritus 1648. 527-4351

Hours: M–Th 7:30 a.m. – 7:30 p.m.

F 8:30 a.m. – 1:30 p.m.

When you need to turn in an assignment outside of class time and when your instructor is not holding office hours, take your work to the English Department Office. It is located in the middle section of the second floor of Emeritus. Be polite. Tell the staff that you need to leave an assignment for your instructor. (You'll need to know your instructor's name.) The staff will date-stamp the work, ask you if you need a receipt, and then put the work in the instructor's mailbox for you.

The office has a small staff, so it is closed if the staff is running an errand or in a meeting. If the office is closed when you arrive, drop your work through the mail slot of the door to the workroom (1651), directly across the hall from the English Department Office.

To leave work for your instructor on the Petaluma Campus, drop your papers in the Homework Box, which is attached to the wall outside of the Faculty Support Room, Room 631, in the Richard W. Call Classroom & Administration Building. The Homework Box is available any time the building is open. Campus staff retrieve work from the Homework Box roughly every hour and route it to instructors' personal mailboxes.

The English Department Writing Center

Petaluma Campus: 247A Kathleen Doyle Hall
Santa Rosa Campus: Emeritus 1629
For the current semester's hours, go to http://www.santarosa.edu/english/wc_sr.html

The English Writing Center offers free, individual assistance for any writing assignment you have in any class. English faculty and Instructional Assistants are available for drop-in conferences to help you with any writing-related work, including brainstorming essay ideas, developing a thesis, using correct MLA (Modern Language Association) documentation format, and editing for grammatical and mechanical errors. The Writing Center also offers the use of computers for writing, research, and completing online learning modules. Limited free printing service is available for drafts of essays, college transfer applications, scholarship applications, and other college writing tasks.

The English Department Online Writing Lab (OWL)

<http://www.srjcwrittingcenter.com/lab.html>

Developed by one of the English Department's faculty members, the Online Writing Lab (OWL) provides instruction on everything from tiny details about commas to the big picture of an entire essay. Categories of instruction include punctuation, grammatical sentences, clear sentences, paragraphs, essays, and research writing. Resources also include online video lessons featuring English Department faculty explaining many different writing issues, links to writing resources on the Web, and information about how to earn units while using the OWL.

The Benefits of Solid Reading & Writing Skills

When you study English, you develop skills that will serve you well in many professions. Studying English will strengthen your ability to read on many different levels. You will become more perceptive about language. Your thinking will become more discriminating. You will become adept at finding materials that you need – books, articles, Web sites, and audiovisual resources.

Regardless of the major you study and the work you choose to do, you will need first-rate language skills if you are to do well and advance in your profession. SRJC's Work Experience Department emphasizes the importance of language skills in the workforce (see SRJC-25). Reading, writing, speaking, and listening skills are the first item on its "21st Century Work Skills Objectives" form. That is, Sonoma County employers rank language skills as the most important asset that they're looking for in potential employees.

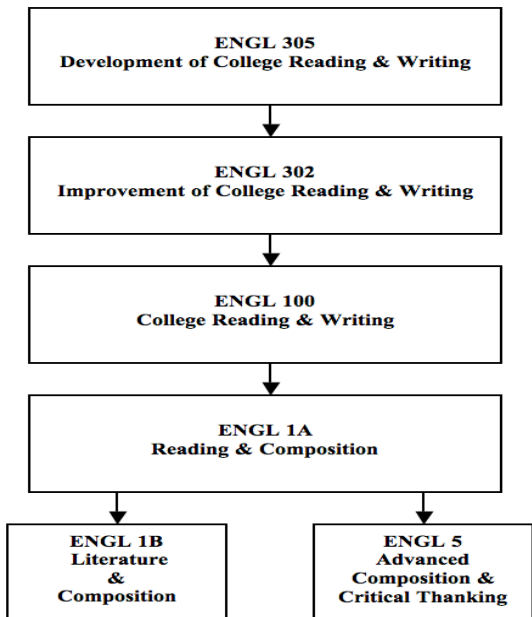

Also, there's evidence that stronger reading, writing, and thinking skills translate into larger salaries.

But there are many more benefits of studying English. You gain skills, but perhaps more importantly, you'll be exposed to beauty, ideas, and amazing stories. The study of English contains everything that people express and explore through the written word: love, history, observations about the natural world, beliefs about life's mysteries, family life, and justice.

The Reading & Writing Skills Pathway

Courses in the English pathway will introduce you to academic discourse—the way language is used in higher education—to prepare you for success in college. While the specific content of classes will vary, each course weaves together lessons on reading, writing, thinking, speaking, and interacting that will increase in complexity as you move through the pathway. Courses are offered in a variety of formats: traditional, online, and hybrid, and as part of the many learning communities that the College offers. (For more information, see the Student Programs section SRJC-25.) The SRJC Catalog and Schedule of Classes provide detailed information about courses, including when and where they are offered.

ENGLISH PATHWAY

Pathway Course Descriptions & Student Learning Outcomes

Student Learning Outcomes

By the end of the semester, students will be able to demonstrate:

- Their knowledge of reading strategies and rhetorical patterns of organization
- Their ability to comprehend, interpret, analyze, and draw inferences from academic and career preparation texts
- Their ability to use the writing process to narrow a topic suitable for an essay of a prescribed length; formulate and develop a thesis with details, examples, and reasons; and express their ideas in clear and grammatical sentences and logical paragraphs
- Proficiency in reading comprehension

English 302: Improvement of College Reading and Writing

Catalog Description

Development of reading, writing, and information skills necessary for proficiency in academic and career-preparation college work.

Student Learning Outcomes

By the end of the semester, students will be able to demonstrate:

- An understanding of academic and career-preparation materials at a level required for but not ensuring success in English 100

SRJC-8

- Proficiency in writing a variety of types of essays in response to readings and other materials required for but not ensuring success in English 100
- An ability to select and evaluate source materials and incorporate them correctly into writing assignments
- An ability to recognize and articulate the relationship between abstract concepts and particular facts

English 100: College Reading and Writing

Catalog Description

This course is designed to develop skills to the level required for success in ENGL 1A and other transfer-level courses.

Student Learning Outcomes

By the end of the semester, students will be able to:

- Analyze readings of various lengths and complexity in terms of rhetorical method of development, style, implications, irony, satire, assumptions, and biases
- Summarize and synthesize ideas from more than one college-level reading
- Apply the writing process to create logically developed and organized analytical essays with a clear point of view expressed in a thesis statement.
- Incorporate source materials and document them in MLA style

English 1A: Reading & Composition

Catalog Description

Critical reading and discussion of works in various literary forms. Composition predominantly of reasoned and reflective prose. Content and emphasis of particular sections specified in the English Department's course description bulletin "A Hundred Doors" issued every year.

Student Learning Outcomes

By the end of the semester, students will be able to:

- Write a comprehensive, well-developed, and coherent essay with a focused thesis and appropriate support
- Recognize and correct errors in grammar, punctuation, and spelling
- Identify and analyze argumentative, stylistic, and narrative techniques in nonfiction and fictional works
- Obtain, summarize, and synthesize research materials demonstrating the correct use of MLA citations

English 1B: Literature and Composition

Catalog Description

An introduction to literature that emphasizes critical reading, discussion, and analytic writing about works representative of fiction, poetry, drama, and literary criticism.

Student Learning Outcomes

By the end of the semester, students will be able to:

- Demonstrate reading skills that allow one to comprehend, analyze, and interpret works of fiction, literary nonfiction, poetry, and drama
- Apply one or more critical approaches to literature in well-developed, logically organized, and thesis-driven interpretive and analytical essays on widely recognized works of literature
- Identify and distinguish among the elements of a successful summary, response, analysis, and interpretation
- Demonstrate an appreciation of literary works whose aesthetic treatment of enduring human questions distinguishes them from those whose focus and purpose are primarily commercial

English 5: Advanced Composition and Critical Thinking

Catalog Description

A critical reasoning and advanced composition course designed to develop critical reading, thinking, and writing skills beyond the level achieved in English 1A. The course will focus on development of logical reasoning and analytical and argumentative writing skills.

Student Learning Outcomes

By the end of the semester, students will be able to:

- Describe principles of critical thinking
- Apply principles of critical thinking to texts, media, and everyday experience
- Write critical analysis and response papers

The Solkov Work of Literary Merit (WOLM)

http://www.santarosa.edu/english/current_wolm.html

Every semester, most instructors teaching English 1A set aside several weeks to read, discuss, and write about a work of literature that the department has selected. We call this the Work of Literary Merit, or WOLM for short. This work is usually a novel, but past WOLM picks have included collections of essays, stories, and poetry, as well as plays.

The department sponsors a lecture series on the selected work. These lectures are designed with you, the beginning college student, in mind. The lectures are interesting and accessible – not over the heads of college freshmen who may be learning about college-level literary analysis for the first time. Past WOLM events have also included an eighteenth-century country dance (for our work with Jane Austen's Pride and Prejudice), visits and lectures from the authors themselves (Maxine Hong Kingston, author of The Woman Warrior; and Greg Sarris, author of Grand Avenue), and essay contests (with prizes!).

The English Major

<http://www.santarosa.edu> (type “major” in the “Search” box, then choose “English” from the pull-down menu)

What do Dr. Seuss, astronaut Sally Ride, actor Christopher Reeve, novelist Stephen King, and San Diego Chargers coach Marty Schottenheimer all have in common? They were all English majors!

The English major fosters an appreciation of English and American literatures, as well as other literatures available in English translation. In addition to fulfilling requirements for an associate of arts degree, as an English major you can prepare for university transfer not only in English but in a variety of subjects requiring clear and creative expression, advanced reading and writing skills, and strong analytic ability. English majors also develop communication and interpretive skills highly valued in the workplace in a wide range of careers. Talk with a counselor for more information about majors.

Maps

Literature, Creative Writing, & the Literary Magazine

For a comprehensive list, course numbers, and course descriptions, see the SRJC Catalog.

Literature Courses

Genre courses focus on a particular literary form:

Introductions to the Novel, Poetry, and the Short Story; Science Fiction; and Detective Fiction

Survey courses focus on the literature of a particular culture during a particular time in history: American Literature, European Literature, and British Literature.

Multicultural American literature courses focus on the literature of America's many ethnic subcultures: Ethnic Diversity, African American Arts and Literature, Asian American Literature, and Chicano/a Arts and Literature

Special focus courses are just that—they explore literature that has a particular emphasis: Literature and the Environment, Children's Literature, Mythic Themes, Women in Literature, Shakespeare, and Literature and Film

Creative Writing Courses

ENGL 4A: Beginning Creative Writing

ENGL 4B: Creative Writing Workshop

ENGL 4C: Advanced Creative Writing Workshop

The English Department's Literary Magazine (ENGL 80)

First Leaves: The Literary and Art Journal of Santa Rosa Junior College has been published since the spring of 1940. In 1974, English 80: Small Publications Workshop began to include not only the production of the journal but also instruction in various forms of printing and publications. Students who enroll in English 80 automatically become the staff of First Leaves.

English Department Scholarships & Awards

English Department Scholarships. The English Department is proud to honor its students each spring with a number of awards and scholarships, ranging from $300 to $950. For information about specific scholarships and deadlines, students should contact the SRJC Scholarship Office (Petaluma Campus: Kathleen Doyle Hall, 778-2461; Santa Rosa Campus: Plover Hall, 527-4740)

English Department Creative Writing Awards & Scholarships. In addition to the scholarships noted above, the English Department also sponsors scholarships based on the merit of students' creative writing submissions. For information about creative writing scholarships and deadlines, contact the English Department (Emeritus 1648, 527-4351).

Classroom Policies

English classrooms, like all classrooms, run smoothly when the teacher and students work collaboratively to establish and maintain a vibrant, engaging classroom environment. In order to sustain such an environment, it is necessary for the teacher and students to understand and follow the class policies and guidelines set forth in the course syllabus; these policies reflect the College's policies. The information below reflects SRJC's policies as outlined in the most recent SRJC Catalog, which can be located on the College's Web site at <http://www.santarosa.edu>. Click on the "Schedules and Catalog" link on the SRJC home page; you'll see an image for and a link to the current SRJC Catalog.

Student Responsibilities

Conduct yourself in a manner that encourages mutual respect, honorable behavior, and learning, thereby promoting student success and academic honesty.

Learn and understand the course requirements, grading procedures, expectations for acceptable conduct, definitions of plagiarism, and the ethical use of technology. Learn and understand SRJC policies on Academic Integrity and the Student Conduct Code, which are in the SRJC Catalog, section three, and part of Policy 8.2.8, Student Discipline. Be familiar with your syllabi so that you understand how these policies will be applied in your classes.

Learn and understand your rights to due process should you wish to contest an allegation or penalty made by an instructor or other representative of the College.

Attendance

You are expected to attend all sessions of the courses in which you are enrolled. The College does not require instructors to make a distinction between an excused or unexcused absence unless mandated by state or federal law. If you miss more than 10 percent of the total hours of class time or do not attend the first two class meetings, an instructor may drop you. For detailed information, see the SRJC Catalog, section three.

Classroom Behavior Expectations

Conduct yourself in a manner that encourages mutual respect, honorable behavior, and learning, thereby promoting student success and encouraging academic honesty. Refrain from any distracting behavior. Failure to do so will result in disciplinary action. Categories of misconduct that pertain to classroom behavior include dishonesty, such as cheating or plagiarism, and disruption of teaching or learning activities, including the use of vulgar or abusive language. For detailed information, see the SRJC Catalog, section three.

Personal Electronics

The use of cell phones, laptops, iPods, or other personal electronic devices can distract teachers and classmates, which negatively impacts the classroom environment. As noted above, disciplinary action can be taken for a variety of behaviors that disrupt teaching and learning activities, including the use of personal electronics. Check the course syllabus for your instructor's policies regarding personal electronics. When you are in the Writing Center, your cell phone must be turned off since this is a quiet work/study center.

Academic Integrity

Academic Integrity is the avoidance of all acts of academic dishonesty, which includes, according to section three of the SRJC Catalog, "any act of deception, benign or malicious in nature, in the completion of any academic exercise." Examples of academic dishonesty include but are not limited to plagiarism, cheating, falsifying records, or otherwise representing another's work as your own.

In classes that require writing and essays, it is especially important that you learn and understand exactly what plagiarism is so that you can avoid it. Plagiarism is presenting someone else's ideas or words as your own. To avoid plagiarism, you must cite all source material appropriately; in other words, give credit where it is due.

While some instances of plagiarism are unintentional, all instances of plagiarism are susceptible to disciplinary action. Check the course syllabus for your English instructor's plagiarism policy. If you are enrolled in other courses that require writing, be sure to ask those instructors about their plagiarism policies as well.

College Success Resources & Programs

Information and involvement: these two ingredients will enhance your SRJC experience, promoting both academic and personal success in college and beyond. SRJC is committed to your success and offers numerous support services to students and specialized programs to help you make decisions, make friends, and create a network of academic and social support. There is a service or program for every type of student. All of these services are described in detail on the SRJC Web site at <http://www.santarosa.edu> under the key link "For Students."

Please note that services and resources listed on the following pages will be housed in the new Lawrence A. Bertolini Student Services Center, which will open during the 2009-2010 academic year. The location of these services prior to their move to the Lawrence A. Bertolini Student Services Center is included in parentheses.

Student Services and Resources

Associated Students

Petaluma Campus: Richard W. Call Classroom & Administration Building, Room 601

Santa Rosa Campus: Lawrence A. Bertolini Student Services Center (prior location: Pioneer Hall). 527-4424

SRJC Associated Students offers several opportunities to get involved in college life, which will enrich your academic experience. This office organizes campus activities and events and oversees student government and clubs. Join Associated Students to get involved and have fun.

BearFacts

BearFacts is a daily newsletter for students that provides updates about events, club meetings, job options, and much more. It is a great resource if you're looking for a way to become involved in college activities.

Career Services

http://www.santarosa.edu/for_students/student_resources/career-development-services/

Santa Rosa Campus: Lawrence A. Bertolini Student Services Center (prior location: Bussman Hall, Room 1440).
527-4941

The Career Center will help you explore and prepare for various career fields and occupations through a variety of resources, such as career inventories, computerized career testing, and resume writing. It is never too early to explore the extensive resources the Career Center offers; the staff will help you understand the relationship between the majors you are considering and career opportunities. The center also maintains a list of job postings in case you are seeking a full- or part-time job, either on or off campus. On-campus jobs give you an opportunity to develop useful job skills while working in a supportive environment. Off-campus job listings are updated frequently and include a rich variety of challenging and interesting opportunities.

CyBear Center

http://www.santarosa.edu/for_students/student_resources/cybear/

Petaluma Campus: Richard Call Hall, Room 607
Santa Rosa Campus: Lawrence A. Bertolini Student Services Center (prior location: Pioneer Hall). 522-2638

The CyBear Center is a comprehensive copying and resource center designed to help you with your academic projects. The center offers copying, scanning, laminating, and faxing services. You can also use the free workstations, which are supplied with staples, hole-punchers, paper cutters, correction fluid, pens and pencils, markers, paper clips, tape, and glue. Additionally, the CyBear Center issues photo IDs for use at College-sponsored events and in college libraries and computer labs.

Disability Resources Department (DRD)

<http://online.santarosa.edu/presentation/page/?35762>

Petaluma Campus: John M. Jacobs Hall, Room 101 778-2491
Santa Rosa Campus: Analy Village-C. 527-4278

SRJC has an excellent Disability Resources Department. If you have a disability and believe that you may need accommodations in any of your classes, contact DRD. Staff members advocate for students with disabilities, offering assessment, advising, classes, and tutoring.

English Department Writing Center

http://www.santarosa.edu/english/wc_sr.html

Petaluma Campus: 247A Kathleen Doyle Hall
Santa Rosa Campus: Emeritus 1629

For the current semester's hours, visit the Web site. The English Writing Center offers free, individual assistance for any writing assignment you have in any class. English faculty and Instructional Assistants are available for drop-in conferences to help you with any writing-related work, including brainstorming essay ideas, developing a thesis, using correct MLA documentation format, and editing for grammatical and mechanical errors. The Writing Center also offers the use of computers for writing, research, and completing online learning modules. Limited free printing service is available for drafts of essays, college transfer applications, scholarship applications, and other college writing tasks.

Extended Opportunity Programs and Services (EOPS)

<http://www.santarosa.edu/app/paying-for-college/eops/>
Santa Rosa Campus: Lawrence A. Bertolini Student Services Center (prior location: 1808 Albany Street, just off of Elliott Avenue). 527-4383

EOPS provides extensive assistance to full-time, low-income, educationally disadvantaged students so they can achieve their academic goals. This office provides academic, personal, and career counseling, priority registration, and book vouchers, as well as assistance with completing and submitting college forms.

Financial Aid Office

http://www.santarosa.edu/app/paying-for-college/financial_aid_office/
Petaluma Campus: Kathleen Doyle Hall. (707) 778-2461
Santa Rosa Campus: Plover Hall. (707) 527-4471

SRJC offers several financial assistance programs, including numerous grants and loans, that may help you pay for your education. You must complete a Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) to apply for any one of these programs.

Libraries at SRJC

<http://www.santarosa.edu/library/>
Petaluma Campus: Herold Mahoney Library. 778-3974
Santa Rosa Campus: Frank P. Doyle Library. 527-4391

We're extremely fortunate to have beautiful, new, state-of-the-art libraries on both campuses: Petaluma's Mahoney Library and Santa Rosa's Doyle Library. You will, of course, find a lot of books at both facilities. But what you may not know is that you'll also find media materials (DVDs, videos, audio recordings), art exhibits, and study rooms that can accommodate groups. The libraries have many computers for student use, as well as laptops that you can check out and use in the library. Both libraries have WiFi. We encourage you to take a tour of the library by checking out an iPod with an audio tour.

Besides visiting the physical libraries, you can also meet many of your research needs online through the library's extensive Web site. From the library's home page, you can access the book and media catalogs, online subscription databases, an extensive list of links to other Internet sites, and research resources for the current Work of Literary Merit (WOLM). The library's Web page also provides links to instructional Web sites and materials, library services, information about the library (for example, its hours and floor plans), and library news. It's a great resource! Spend some time becoming familiar with it.

Mathematics, Engineering, and Science Achievement (MESA)

<http://www.santarosa.edu/mesa>

Santa Rosa Campus: Lawrence A. Bertolini Student Services Center (prior location: Lark Temps). 521-7909

This SRJC program supports students who plan to obtain a bachelor's degree in a science, technology, engineering, or mathematical field. The MESA office offers academic excellence workshops, transfer assistance, a student study center, and professional development networking. For application information, contact the MESA office.

MyCubby Student Portal

<http://www.santarosa.edu/index/shtml>

MyCubby helps you stay informed in each of your classes. This user-friendly system enables you to receive class announcements, e-mail, and updates from your instructor. Login is required and easy to set up. To get started, click on the student portal link on SRJC's home page.

SRJC-22

Scholarship Office

<http://www.santarosa.edu/scholarship>

Petaluma Campus: Kathleen Doyle Hall. 778-2461

Santa Rosa Campus: Plover Hall. 527-4740

SRJC's scholarship specialists are dedicated to helping you find the financial support necessary to help you reach your academic goals. The staff will assist you in researching and applying for one or more of the hundreds of scholarships offered at SRJC.

Student Health Services

http://www.santarosa.edu/for_students/student-services/student-health-services

Petaluma Campus: Richard W. Call Classroom &

Administration Building, Room 610. 778-3919

Santa Rosa Campus: Race Building, Room 4017. 527-4445

Student Health Services staff will help you understand the relationship between health and academic success. They can help you establish and maintain a healthy lifestyle conducive to achieving your educational goals. You don't have to wait until you have a cold to utilize their services; they offer many services, including health screenings, health advice, and psychological counseling.

Student Psychological Services

http://www.santarosa.edu/for_students/student-services/services/services-available/#sps

Petaluma Campus: Richard W. Call Classroom &

Administration Building, Room 610. 778-3919

Santa Rosa Campus: Race Building, Room 4017. 527-4445

This is one of the many specialized services offered through Student Health Services. The staff can assist you with any psychological stressors that are interfering with your academic and personal success. As a student at SRJC, you are eligible for short-term counseling, including individual, couples, family, and group therapy. If you are dealing with issues such as alcoholism, eating disorders, or stressful relationships, contact this office for assistance. It offers several screening and educational events related to these and many other issues.

Transfer Center

http://www.santarosa.edu/instruction/prepare_for_transfer/resources/

Santa Rosa Campus: Lawrence A. Bertolini Student Services Center (prior location: Bussman Hall, Room 1434).
527-4874

If you are even considering the possibility of transferring to a four-year college or university, a visit to the Transfer Center is a must. Spend time with a transfer counselor to become familiar with the center's resources. This will help to make sure that your SRJC courses are truly preparing you for the four-year university or college you want to transfer to, as well as for the major you plan to study.

Tutorial Center

http://www.santarosa.edu/orientation/resources_academic.html#tutorial

Petaluma Campus: Richard W. Call Classroom & Administration Building, Room 690. 778-2409
Santa Rosa Campus: Frank P. Doyle Library, Room 4251.
521-6903

If you need assistance with any of your coursework, make the Tutoring Center a part of your weekly schedule. This center provides free tutoring and materials in numerous subjects including ASL, Astronomy, Biology, Business, Chemistry, Economics, English, ESL, History, Math, Philosophy, Physics, and other requested subjects. Drop-in tutoring is available for Math, Chemistry, and writing assignments.

Work Experience Department

<http://www.santarosa.edu/instruction/jtwd/wei/>

Petaluma Campus: John M. Jacobs Hall, Room 117. 778-3920

Santa Rosa Campus: Lawrence A. Bertolini Student Services Center (prior location: 1440 Bussman Hall). 527-4329

The Work Experience Department offers a number of courses that help you develop the skills you will need in the 21st-century work world. Opportunities include internships, earning units while working, and volunteering. The faculty in the Work Experience Department focus on the skills that local, regional, and state employers are looking for in their employees. These skills include communication, customer service, time management, and teamwork, among others.

Student Programs

For current meeting times and dates for the following learning community and online courses, check the online Schedule of Classes by going to SRJC's home page at <http://www.santarosa.edu/>, opening the Quick Links menu, and selecting Schedule of Classes.

First-Year Experience (FYE) Courses

<http://www.santarosa.edu/app/counseling/counseling-courses/>

SRJC's Counseling Department provides two First Year Experience classes: Counseling 10 and Counseling 11. Both courses provide the academic and social support necessary to help you smoothly and successfully transition to a four-year college or university.

Learning Communities

<http://www.santarosa.edu/app/getting-started/learning-communities/>

SRJC's Learning Communities enhance your educational experience, helping you establish solid academic and social foundations that support your success. Instructors and students work together to build engaging learning-oriented environments to ensure that all participants make the most of their college experience. SRJC offers a First-Year Experience Learning Community, Puente Learning Communities, and several Interdisciplinary Learning Communities.

Online/Hybrid Classes

<http://www.santarosa.edu/instruction/online-learning/index/shtml>

SRJC offers a variety of online classes, providing an alternative to traditional classroom instruction and allowing you to learn from work or home. All online courses are taught by SRJC faculty, have the same rigor and quality as other SRJC classes, and employ methods of instruction that are customized to the online environment.

Puente Program

<http://www.santarosa.edu/puente/about.shtml>

Santa Rosa Campus: Lawrence A. Bertolini Student Services Center (prior location: Lark Temps). 524-1701

The Puente Program offers underserved students a yearlong English-Counseling Learning Community. The program's curriculum focuses on Latino literature and experiences. Puente students receive support, insight, and inspiration from Puente mentors, individuals who have successfully navigated the road to university.

Study Abroad

<http://www.santarosa.edu/sa>

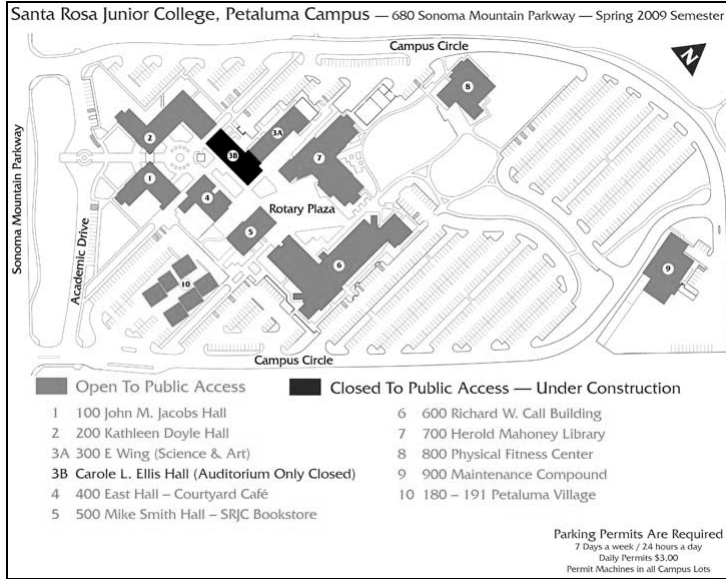

SRJC offers opportunities to study abroad in Costa Rica, London, Paris, and Florence. The purpose of the program, as stated on the Study Abroad Web site, is to “offer a variety of programs and services that will provide students, faculty, and the community at large with the knowledge, skills, and cultural experiences necessary to become well-prepared members of a global society.”
