Part 1: Sonoma County Text Wrapping

Before you begin, check out the Best of Class samples and see what previous students created for Lab 5 at the class website. Complete Exercise 5 on page 68 of Stepping Out With InDesign. When you are finished with the exercise, you will have completed a 2-page document. Each page will have a different style of text wrapping applied to a graphic. Feel free to be creative as you work on this lab, as long as you do a rectangular text wrap on a photograph on the first page and a contour wrap on a vector graphic on the second page.

Print both pages of the document.

Checklist for week 5:

- Optional: look at Adobe's timeline and history using the Week 5 link at the class website
- Print and submit the 2-page document in your folder

An invitation to join NBAUG from Cyndi Reese

Jeff Diamond and I are co-sponsors of the North Bay Adobe Users Group. We hold 8 meetings a year at the Santa Rosa campus of Santa Rosa Junior College. Membership is free. Adobe is most generous to its user groups, sending top Adobe evangelists to speak to us as well as providing great "swag" to give away.

Adobe

® Twice a year we are able to raffle away $1800 of Adobe software to one of our lucky members in the audience.

If you're interested in joining, visit www.nbaug.com.

Join us on Monday, February 23rd, to watch Jeff Diamond present "How to Create Prototype Websites with Fireworks". It will focus on using Fireworks to create prototypes for clients without need to write a single line of html. Starting with some image assets a multi-page website prototype will be created to show clients without having to do any of the heavy lifting associated with html or CSS.

Next months presenter will be me, Cyndi Reese, on March 23rd doing a presentation on Adobe InDesign. Come and meet me in person!
